2013 Kentucky School of Alcohol and Other Drug Studies

40th Year

TRADITION ◇ MEETS ◇ INNOVATION

July 21-25, 2013  Louisville, KY.

LOCATION:
Crowne Plaza Hotel, 830 Phillips Lane Louisville, KY 40209
800-633-8723 • 502-367-6161

For Conference Site information: www.cplouisville.com

Please join us in July for the 40th Kentucky School of Alcohol and Other Drug Studies Conference and celebration! This year promises to be bigger and better than ever with a full line-up of locally, regionally and nationally recognized experts in the Substance Abuse Prevention and Treatment services arena! Whether you are a seasoned clinician or new to the field, you are sure to learn new things and meet new people that will enrich your life, both personally and professionally.

There are 45 workshop offerings, with topics ranging from the traditional ones needed for your licensure and certification renewal to the most innovative ones providing the most recent data and research available. There are the traditional meetings/trainings of the CADC Board, The Kentucky Adolescent Substance Abuse Consortium, Leadership Academy, Daily AA/NA Meetings, and the Kentucky Association of Recovery Professionals, to name a few. There are also exciting panel discussions, plenaries and workshops that will offer the participant up-to-date information on the most innovative happenings in the field.

We are excited about the new conference venue, the Crowne Plaza Hotel, in Louisville. It is conveniently located next to the airport and is guaranteed to allow for enhanced comfort for participants and improved networking opportunities. Lunch will be provided each day and guest rooms are customized to accommodate multiple occupants. There is a 24-hour airport shuttle, free hotel parking, free internet and WiFi. Check it all out at www.cplouisville.com or call 800-633-8723 for more information.

Dear KY School Participants,

The Kentucky Association of Addiction Professionals (KAAP) is the state affiliate of NAADAC, the National Association of Addiction Professionals. The Kentucky School serves as KAAP's primary forum for training addiction professionals in state of the art information for prevention, intervention, treatment and research related to addiction studies. As co-sponsor of the 2013 Kentucky School, KAAP members will receive a registration discount as an incentive to become a member of Kentucky’s statewide professional organization for addiction professionals and advocates. Annual membership in KAAP is $110.00 for Professionals, $89.00 for Associates (working toward their CADC or prevention certification) and $47.50 for student membership.

Information on NAADAC membership and becoming a member of KAAP can be found at www.naadac.org. KAAP members will receive a $100.00 discount for four day registration and a $25.00 discount for daily registration at this year’s Kentucky School. Please enter your NAADAC membership number on your registration for the Kentucky School application. This discount will only apply to NAADAC members who are registered in Kentucky to become members of the Kentucky Association of Addiction Professionals.

On behalf of KAAP, we encourage addiction professionals to become active with KAAP and to become an active member of NAADAC as we move to strengthen the Substance Abuse field in the coming years.

Mike Townsend, President

Kentucky Association of Addiction Professionals

The State of Grassroots National Movements and the Power of Our Stories
Mr. Mike Barry, BS

1 Hour Plenary

Find out how your story and the stories of others are changing the landscape and long held beliefs about recovery. There is hope and healing in sharing our journey. This presentation will speak to the inspiration of one story at a time and how the face and voice of recovery has changed over the last decade. This presentation will give an overview of the state of grassroots National Recovery Movements.

Recovery is everywhere. A growing movement is making a difference since advocates from more than 30 states came together in 2001 to found Faces & Voices of Recovery.

Today, you are part of a thriving network of more than 30,000 individuals and organizations in the U.S. and worldwide who are organizing and mobilizing to advocate for and build strong communities of recovery.

State and local recovery community organizations are educating the public that addiction recovery is a reality for over 23 million Americans, benefiting individuals, families and communities. They are speaking out to remove barriers and to ensure that all Americans have a right to recovery.

By adding your voice to our state advocacy organization, PAR-People Advocating Recovery, we will make a difference. Your story of recovery is more powerful than you might think – when it’s part of this exciting movement.

Objectives:
1. How to present your own recovery story publicly so that it has the most impact and respects traditions of 12 Step organizations.
2. How to talk to reporters, the general public, and policymakers.
3. What skills are needed to be a recovery ambassador and how a united voice about recovery can be part of bringing down social barriers and discrimination.

Mike Barry has had his share of broad life experiences from which to draw. By age 40 he had reached the peak of his profession as a TV News Anchor, reporter, and producer. But behind the polished image of success was a man already overwhelmed by the disease of alcoholism.

His story is more common than you think, which is why the driving passion of his life today is to help others in need of a new life, free from addiction and in long-term recovery, he himself found.

His new calling as an advocate for the recovery movement is enhanced by his training and experience in broadcasting and technology. His unique combination of talent, energy and devotion to the cause has placed Mike Barry at the heart of this movement.

He travels the country seeking to educate others about addiction, to remove barriers and discrimination, and thus enable those in long-term recovery and no longer using alcohol or other drugs to become productive members of society.

Future of Addictions Field and Workforce Development

Dr. H. Westley Clark, M.D., J.D., M.P.H., CAS, FASAM, Director, Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT)

1 Hour CEU Plenary

Dr. Clark's presentation will focus on the effect emerging trends and policies are expected to have on the behavioral health field. The potential impact of health care reform – specifically Health IT, integrated care, and evidence-based practices will be examined related to the behavioral health field and SAMHSA's priorities. Focus will also be given to preparing the behavioral health workforce for the demands of a changing health care environment.

Objectives:
1. Understand how emerging trends will potentially impact substance abuse treatment.
2. Understand the importance of utilizing evidence-based practices, health IT and integrated care to increase accountability and promote sustainability.
3. Understand how these changes and emerging trends will affect the behavioral health.

As director of the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment under the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Dr. H. Westley Clark leads the agency's efforts to provide effective and accessible treatment to all Americans with addictive disorders. Dr. Clark’s areas of expertise include substance abuse treatment, methadone maintenance, pain management, dual diagnosis, psychopharmacology, anger management, and medical and legal issues. He is also a noted author, clinician, teacher and spokesperson in the field of addiction and forensic psychiatry.

Dr. Clark has received numerous awards for his contribution to the field of substance abuse treatment, including the 2008 President of the United States of America, Rank of Distinguished Executive in the Senior Executive Service Award in recognition of his personal commitment to excellence in government and public service. In 2003, he was honored with Presidential Rank of Meritorious Executive Award for his sustained superior accomplishments in management of programs of the United States Government and for noteworthy achievement of quality and efficiency in the public service. Dr. Clark was also awarded the 2008 John P. McGovern Award from the American Society of Addiction Medicine for his contributions toward increased understanding of the relationship between addiction and society.

Dr. Clark received his medical degree from the University of Michigan and his law degree from Harvard University Law School. Dr. Clark received his board certification from the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology in psychiatry and sub-specialty certifications in addiction psychiatry. Dr. Clark is licensed to practice medicine in California, Maryland, Massachusetts and Michigan. He is also a member of the Washington, D.C., Bar Association.

15 Strategies For Engaging And Increasing Recovery Rates With Chemically Dependent Clients

Mark Sanders, LCSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Monday

Research reveals that chemical dependence recovery rates have barely increased over the past 50 years, and in most states, approximately 50% of clients drop out of treatment prematurely. Participants will leave this presentation with tools that will enable them to achieve greater results with clients with substance use disorders. A partial list of topics includes: 15 Strategies for Increasing Recovery Rates; 10 Strategies to Help Clients Successfully Complete Treatment; The Use of Evidence-supported Practice in Increasing Recovery Rates; How Workers Can Improve Personal Effectiveness with Addicted Clients - A Review of the Research; and Improving Recovery Rates by Engaging the Family; and much, much more.

Objectives:

1. Be aware of 15 strategies for increasing recovery rates with chemically dependent clients.
2. Be aware of 10 strategies to effectively retain clients in treatment.
3. Be aware of 10 strategies for increasing 12-step attendance.

Foundation Skills for Substance Abuse Counseling

Geoff Wilson, LCSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Monday

This workshop is for new counselors entering the treatment field or for counselors that are beginning to see more addiction clients on their caseloads and want to be more effective with this population. Utilizing TAP 21: Addiction Counseling Competencies, pertinent aspects of assessment, diagnosis, and treatment planning will be reviewed. Techniques for engaging clients and their families and running effective treatment groups will be explored. Utilizing interventions that correspond to a client’s stage of change will also be reviewed.

Objectives:

1. Explore their professional readiness to work effectively with the addiction population.
2. Review a variety of Practice Dimensions, along with evidence-based practices for treating the addiction population.
3. Review techniques to enhance engagement with clients and how to formulate appropriate client involved treatment plans.
Clinical Excellence in Suicide Prevention: A Systems Approach to Reducing Suicide Risk among Mental Health and Substance Abuse Clients

Jan Ulrich, BAS, QPR

1 Day Workshop • Monday

“Over the decades, individual (behavioral health) clinicians have made heroic efforts to save lives... but systems of care have done very little.” - Dr. Richard McKeon, SAMHSA

Mental health and substance use disorders are leading factors in suicide risk. It has long been believed that suicide deaths among some high risk mental health and substance abuse clients are inevitable. But emerging research is proving that suicide risk among these clients can be reduced or even eliminated through a comprehensive systems level approach.

This approach calls for changes in Core Values the belief and commitment that suicide can be eliminated in a population under care, by improving service access and quality and through continuous improvement (rendering suicide a “never event” for these populations); Systems Management - taking systematic steps across systems of care to create a culture that no longer finds suicide acceptable, set aggressive but achievable goals to eliminate suicide attempts and deaths among members, and organize service delivery and support accordingly; and Evidence-Based Clinical Care Practice - delivered through the system of care with a focus on productive patient/staff interactions. These methods, including standardized risk stratification, targeted evidence-based clinical interventions, accessibility, follow-up and engagement and education of patients, families and healthcare professionals, achieve results.

Objectives:

1. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to identify three main steps toward the development of suicide care in systems framework.
2. By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to identify some tools and resources to implement the suicide care in systems framework model in their organization or practice.
3. By the end of this workshop, participants will understand the concept of suicide as a “never event”, and why adopting this goal is key to reducing or eliminating suicide within a population in care.

Screening, Brief Intervention, and Referral to Treatment (SBIRT): A Public Health Approach to Substance Use Behavior

Alan Lyme, MSW
Steve O’Neil, MA

1 Day Workshop • Monday

Prior to reaching the level of dependence moderate or high risk substance use often results in psycho-social or health related problems. Universal screening coupled with brief interventions (SBI) for those who are at risk can result in dramatic changes in substance use choices and behavior. This presentation will provide participants with the evidence base for this innovative practice, define the conceptual framework for addressing substance use as a public health problem, explore the myths surrounding working with substance using populations, and provide an overview of the clinical practice (motivational interviewing) that is the foundation for successful behavioral change.

Objectives:

1. Learn the conceptual basis of SBIRT as a public health model for substance use services.
2. Recognize the supporting evidence indicating the efficacy of SBIRT.
3. Understand the process of providing substance use screening and brief intervention.
4. Experience the clinical approaches used in the provision of SBIRT services.
Clinical Restoration: A Practical Approach to Balancing Work, Home, and Self

Julia Persike, MS, CSAC

1 Day Workshop • Monday

Stress. Cynicism. Hopelessness. Exhaustion. Depression. No matter what you call it, many professional helpers - whether counselors, social workers, law enforcement officers, or physicians - experience a consistent lack of self-awareness needed to maintain emotional, physical, and spiritual balance both in their daily work schedules as well as in their personal lives. Whether providing group therapy, primary care, or program coordination, professional helpers listen to their clients, treat their patients, and care for their consumers yet often times, lack the skills needed for professional self-care. This class will define compassion fatigue, outline practical, wellness-based methods of recovery, and will examine best practices in preventing the onset of professional burnout and compassion fatigue symptomology. Participants will gain practical strategies based in mindfulness, stress reduction, voluntary simplicity, and time management in order to create a wellness-based lifestyle plan.

Objectives:

1. Participants will explore the historical roots of Compassion Fatigue as it relates to professional helpers.
2. Participants will examine the ethical challenges facing professional helpers today.
3. Participants will learn a variety of wellness-based coping tools such as stress reduction skill building, time management and organizational skills, and healthy boundary development.
4. Participants will experience an assortment of mindfulness-based, relaxation techniques which can be applied both professionally and personally.
5. Participants will create a comprehensive wellness plan.

Substance Abuse and HIV Disease

Rev. Daniel Newman, Ph.D., DD, APS, RRS

1 Day Workshop • Monday

During the course of the training participants will learn the incidence of HIV infection among injecting drug users, male and female sex trade workers, alcohol and street/party drug addiction, and the effects on their sexual partners. This workshop will take an in-depth look into addictions that lead individuals into a dangerous world of HIV/AIDS and other life threatening sexual transmitted infections (STI). Integrating information and risk reduction into clinical practice as well as issues of mental health, family relationships, and relapse due to grief, loss, and sexual addiction. Basic knowledge about current HIV issues, epidemiology, transmission prevention and treatment that would be of assistance to those taking this course.

Objectives:

1. Examine the history and statistic of the HIV/AIDS pandemic.
2. Identify sex and chemical addiction as high risk for HIV and other STI's.
3. Explore the myths, facts, and fiction concerning prevention.
4. Integrate the information into treatment and identification of mental health, substance abuse issues, sexual addiction issues, family/relationship issues, and relapse prevention.
Effective Intervention, Treatment, and Outpatient Services for Adolescents and Their Families: A Holistic Approach

James Campbell, MA

1 Day Workshop • Monday

Adolescent treatment can seem a bit like dancing in a minefield. Those who choose to do it are likely to have their sanity questioned by those around them who do not. Occasionally those who work with adolescents may even question their own sanity. When choosing a place to dance, a minefield is simply not the first choice of most. The unseen dangers lurking beneath the surface means that any misstep can potentially have explosive results. Adolescence and volatility seem to be almost synonymous to many. Still, for some of us, we choose to dance there. We know the field is full of volatility and, potentially, danger, but we also know that the rewards of dancing there can be rich. Could there be some way to mitigate the risks while drawing out the best of adolescence? What if we as counselors could know where the mines were buried? What if we could be proactive in disarming them and help to make the fields safer for all who pass that way? What if what many consider to be liabilities are actually carefully disguised opportunities and, potentially, strengths?

There has been a wealth of recent discoveries about the biological, psychological, social, spiritual, and experiential aspects of adolescent development and learning. Unfortunately, there is frequently a disconnect between what we know works with adolescents and the treatment modalities we use when working with them. We cling to outdated paradigms and then cringe when they prove less than effective. This session briefly reviews some of the most important discoveries related to adolescent development in recent years and then explores how to best apply that knowledge to design and implement effective treatment strategies for engaging and working with adolescents and their families. An emphasis is placed on practical implementation in working successfully and holistically with adolescents.

So come join us as we learn to effectively navigate the minefield of adolescence and learn to dance more effectively in prevention, treatment and intervention of those we serve!

Objectives:

1. Define what it means to work with adolescents holistically.
2. Gain an understanding of the fundamental developmental task of adolescence, why knowing this task matters, and how to leverage it effectively in prevention, intervention, and treatment.
3. Grasp the vulnerabilities particular to adolescent development related to substance use.
4. Enhance understanding of the role of family and support systems in adolescence and how to help build support for the adolescents we serve.
5. Evaluate the importance of learning styles and their implications for effective intervention and treatment.
6. Cultivate practical skills related to utilizing the arts in counseling regardless of artistic ability.
7. Gain exposure to and a conceptual understanding of experiential exercises for adolescents.
8. Cultivate ideas and develop a plan for engaging adolescents, families and systems within their own agencies and programs.
Adolescent Substance Abuse Consortium: The Role of Community In The Recovery Process
Robert Daniels, MA & Geoff Wilson, LCSW, CADC

2 Hour Workshop • Monday Evening

The youth in recovery panel will present unique perspectives, including first person accounts, regarding their time as consumers in agencies similar to our own. Time will be spent assessing the role of treatment for persons in recovery, debating some ideas for evolution of practice and soliciting opinions from the audience for new directions in both policy and practice. The audience will discuss the merits of treatment provision for consumers in recovery, and debate the areas for new direction and growth as well as highlight any areas of deficient services/policies for their respective programs. The panel will also present on the role of the community in the process of recovery, and where this over-lapped and/or did not over-lap with treatment services. The audience will then discuss the areas of over-lap and potential areas of growth and development with the community, based upon perspectives given by the panel. Discussion will be encouraged to promote new learning concepts from ideas presented.

Objectives:
1. Participants will learn the merits of formal treatment service versus informal community supports, from the point of view of the consumer.
2. Participants will learn the policies that influence practice and programming, especially as it pertains to the consumers’ feedback from this panel.

The Trauma Recovery and Empowerment Model (TREM)
Lori Beyer, LICSW, MSWAC

2 Day Workshop • Monday and Tuesday

The Trauma Recovery and Empowerment Model (TREM) is a gender-based trauma model designed to address issues of sexual, physical, and emotional abuse in the lives of women who have been economically and socially marginalized and for whom traditional recovery work has been unavailable or ineffective. The model was developed by clinicians at Community Connections in Washington, D.C. with considerable input from consumers. TREM uses a psycho-educational focus and skill-building approach, emphasizes survivor empowerment and peer support and teaches women techniques for self-soothing, boundary maintenance and current problem solving.

This training prepares clinicians to implement the fully manualized, 29-session TREM approach to group work with women abuse survivors. Participants learn the group's rationale and process (including a range of cognitive-behavioral and psychoeducational interventions) as well as each session's content. Leader techniques are taught through role-play in mock groups. Trainers also provide consultation about adaptations of TREM for specific settings.

TREM workbooks sponsored by SATTC.

Objectives:
1. Participants will learn the four core assumptions, which provide the foundation for the TREM approach to trauma recovery work.
2. Participants will learn specific leader techniques used in the TREM model.
3. Participants will practice running a TREM group by being a TREM mock group leader and a TREM mock group participant.
4. Participants will understand the complex and multiple connections between trauma, mental health symptoms, and substance abuse.
5. Participants will learn how and when to use grounding techniques with consumers in group.
Substance Use and Other Psychiatric Disorders: Treating the Patient with Addiction and Co-Mingling Disorders

Jeff Georgi, M.Div., LSAS, LPC, CCS, CGP

2 Day Workshop • Monday and Tuesday

This workshop is geared to the intermediate or advanced clinician who often deals with the “treatment resistant” patient with a substance use disorder complicated by an array of other psychiatric diagnoses and psychosocial challenges. These patients are struggling with a “co-mingling” disorder and often receive fragmented care from multiple providers. For far too long our field has viewed these individuals as the dual diagnosis patient. The term itself suggests that people in this category are struggling with two or more different psychiatric illnesses, including their substance use disorder and that these diseases, while treated concurrently, must be addressed individually. This workshop will operate under the assumption that just as the separation of body, mind and spirit is artificial so too is the separation of different disease processes “co-mingling” within one individual at the same time. In order to provide holistic care, clinicians need to utilize a biological, psychological, sociological, spiritual, experiential approach to mental illness/substance abuse. In so doing, the artificial categories or boxes we conveniently provide to define our patients begin to disappear helping the clinician view the persons they treat as human beings stressed and in pain who desperately seek relief. These patients are no different than any of us. They want to feel safe, loved, and fully integrated as they in turn reach out to love and nurture others. But something gets in their way. Our job as clinicians is not to help these people change or make them better but rather to remove the obstacles in their way and allow them to be the “good enough” individuals they have always been. In order to accomplish the aims of this two-day workshop, we will use case studies and discussion as the primary vehicle of instruction. While cases will be provided by the presenter, participants are encouraged to bring detailed case studies of their own which can be integrated into the workshop.

Objectives:
1. Review the biological, psychological, sociological, spiritual, experiential approach to mental illness and substance abuse.
2. Discuss other psychiatric disorders that often “co-mingle” with the substance use disorders.
3. Demonstrate how to conceptualize complicated cases utilizing the “co-mingling” model.
4. Discuss treatment implications using the “co-mingling” model utilizing case studies and discussion.

Preparing to Become a CADC in KY

Jeanne Keen, RNI, CADC, MS
Mike Vance, MBA, CADC, CPP, LSW

2 Day Workshop • Monday and Tuesday

This workshop will provide detail and “hands on” experience for the candidate for certification to understand the history and development of professional certification by ICRC and the Kentucky Application and Credentialing processes. The workshop will include a step-by-step instruction upon successful completion of the application documents, the regulatory requirements and the requirements for submission of all documents. The workshop will further identify and detail the Twelve Core Functions of Alcohol and Drug Counseling and will guide the participant toward a successful study plan that will allow adequate preparation for the new competency based comprehensive exam as introduced by ICRC in June 2008, the instructor will provide numerous suggestions about study methods, test taking ideas and techniques for successful exam taking. A sample exam will be given and will be scored on the last day of the class.

Objectives:
1. Identify and describe the 12 Core Functions
2. Discuss the Global Criteria that are necessary to demonstrate competence in each of the functions
3. Discuss the process of the written exam
4. Understand the CADC certification process.
Intensive Skill Training in Motivational Interviewing
Karen Garrity, MEd, NCC, LPCC, CADC

2 Day Workshop • Monday and Tuesday

This two-day training is a skill-based strengths training that focuses on skill-building for direct practice staff working with challenging clients. The information will be presented over two days, utilizing multimedia presentations, interactive lecture and facilitated small and large group exercises. A mixture of small group discussions, videos, case scenarios and full room exercises keep the training pace lively and engaging.

The emphasis for this training is on skill-building and “theory-to-practice” group work for direct application of these various curriculums.

This Workshop is sponsored by the SATTC.

Objectives:

1. Define and understand the spirit and principles of motivational interviewing. Understand the spirit and principles of motivational interviewing that increase client-staff rapport and increase the client’s readiness to change.
2. Be able to explain why direct confrontation impedes behavior change.
3. Be able to demonstrate, in direct practice, resistant-lowering techniques that will improve the engagement of reluctant clients.
4. Be able to identify activities that will continue the skills development of Motivational Interviewing.

Clinical Supervision: Core Skills for the Future
David Powell, Ph.D.

4 Day Workshop • Monday - Thursday

Ever ask, “Why did I take this supervisor job. I knew what I was doing as a counselor.” This workshop helps answer that question. It provides information and support focusing on four key tasks of a supervisor: evaluation of personnel, staff development, teaching clinical skills, and management issues. Staff needs training on co-occurring disorders, surviving in down-times, and current legal and ethical standards. The workshop draws the fine line between supervision and therapy, supervisor and “friend.” Being an effective supervisor involves clinical and relational issues. It identifies stages of staff development.

Being a supervisor is a difficult task, requiring management, clinical and supervisory skills. You are “the piggy-in-the-middle,” representing the needs of clients and counselors and management.

This workshop is highly interactive, involving case studies, group discussion, inviting participants to share their experiences. Principles are turned into practical skills for participants.

Objectives:

1. What is clinical supervision and how it differs from case management
2. What qualifies you as a supervisor
3. What are the key legal and ethical issues you should know
4. How to set up a strong supervision system
5. What to talk about in supervision
6. How to address the different stages of staff development
7. How to build a healthy relationship with staff
8. How to deal with problems in supervision, such as, the person resistant to supervision or the impaired professional.
Mike Townsend Leadership Academy

Jan Arnow, BFA
Mike Barry, BS
Karyn Hascal, BA

3 Day Workshop • Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

We are pleased to be able to offer a professional development opportunity for professionals in the field by hosting the Michael E. Townsend Leadership Academy at the KY School of Alcohol and Other Drug Studies. The purpose of this initiative is to develop leadership talent and skills for the future of Kentucky substance abuse prevention and treatment. The class will be limited to 16 participants this year with half being emerging leaders and the other half consisting of highly respected, well-established leaders in their disciplines who will serve as mentors. Candidates for the Academy will complete the application to attend the Academy. Fifteen (15) Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are offered for completion of this program. Fifteen (15) Additional Combined CEUs available at the completion of Fall 2013 and Spring 2014 Townsend Leadership Academy Retreats-Separate application will need to be made at that time.

The Academy will consist of a three day intensive workshop held during the KY School and two follow-up sessions throughout the year. The follow-up sessions will be held in October 2013 and April 2014 at state parks and will require travel on the part of participants. Participants are expected to actively participate in the Academy throughout the year. Group discussions and projects will focus on the “at work” application of leadership, experiences and lessons learned. Topics covered will include: embracing change, identifying the work culture, advocacy and nurturing high performance in the workplace.

The Leadership Academy sessions will be facilitated by Jan Arnow, Mike Barry and Karyn Hascal. Ms. Arnow has extensive experience in leadership development, cross-cultural communication, multicultural education and violence abatement. She has lectured at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., and the American Academies of Psychoanalysis and Child & Adolescent Psychiatry. She has also addressed the General Assembly of the United Nations on issues of children and violence. Mike Barry is the CEO of People Advocating for Recovery (PAR). Karyn Hascal is the President of The Healing Place in Louisville, KY.

The Michael E. Townsend Leadership Academy will provide an excellent opportunity for future leaders to interface with those professionals who have demonstrated a true passion and dedication to the substance abuse arena. We are thrilled to be able to offer this exciting opportunity at the Kentucky School and look forward to many years of developing our future leaders.

Objectives:

1. Appropriate learning pace sustained over a period of time.
2. Relevant leadership subjects for on-the-job use.
3. Active participation and behavior-based learning.
4. Senior leadership ownership of providing credibility, collegiality and content validity.
5. Learn about advocacy and how to develop an effective recovery message.

Effective Addictions Treatment in a Managed Care System

Mark Sanders, LCSW, CADC

1 Hour CEU Plenary

This plenary address will integrate the best of what is - evidence-based approaches to client engagement - to the best of what was - strong linkages to communities of recovery - to help clients recover in a managed care environment. Topics covered include: 6 Strategies for Engaging Chemically Dependent Clients within the First 5 Minutes of Contact; Evidence-based Approaches to Engaging Clients in a Managed Care Environment; Facilitating Client Recovery between Managed Care Sessions; and Strategies for Assertively Linking Clients into Peer-based Communities. Emphasis will also be placed on strategies to adjust to systems change initiatives while maintaining a high level of client care.

Objectives:
By the end of this workshop participants will:

1. Be aware of 6 strategies for engaging chemically dependent clients in the first 5 minutes of contact.
2. Be aware of evidence-based approaches to engaging clients in a managed care system.

Mark Sanders, LCSW, CADC, is an international speaker in the addictions and mental health fields whose presentations have reached thousands throughout the United States, Europe, Canada, and the Caribbean Islands. A partial list of clients includes: Wisconsin Department of Corrections; Archdiocese of New York; Bank of Montreal; Harris Bank; U.S. Probation; The Center for Substance Abuse Treatment; United States Army, Navy, Airforce, and Marines; Johnson Institute; Hazelden Foundation; and Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse.

Mark was director of the first Southeast Asian and refugee addiction counselor training program in the world. He is author of several books and workbooks geared toward helping clients recover. Recent writings include “Relationship Detox: How to Have Healthy Relationships in Recovery” and Recovery Management (co-authored with William White and Ernest Kurtz). In 2005, he had two stories published in the New York Times best-selling book series, Chicken Soup for the Soul. His most recent book is Slipping Through the Cracks: Intervention Strategies for Clients with Multiple Addictions and Disorders.

Mark is also a successful consultant, regularly providing consultation to Ohio Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, Wisconsin Association on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, and Michigan Bureau of Mental Health.

In 2003, Mark received the Professional of the Year Award for his work as a trainer and consultant in the addictions field in Illinois.

Mark is a lecturer at the University of Chicago.

TRADITION  MEETS  INNOVATION

WORKSHOP ABSTRACTS

Treating Anger and Aggression in the Recovering CD Client

Cardwell Nuckols, Ph.D.

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

Most of us have very strong reactions to a client, patient, offender, consumer, etc. demonstrating angry emotion and potentially out-of-control behavior. Sometimes our reactions become part of the problem instead of the solution. This presentation can help change these uncomfortable scenarios into potentially positive experiences.

Anger and aggression are best viewed from a multiple causation set of glasses. This skills training event will look at anger as a symptom of numerous psychiatric disorders including addiction, as a learned coping survival strategy, as a manifestation of the ego, in relationship to self-esteem, etc.

To enhance clinical skills, the latest scientific understanding of this group of clients will be addressed while placing emphasis on verbal management, behavioral and pharmacological stabilization along with the demonstration of empirically proven clinical strategies such as relaxation and cognitive-behavioral technique.

Objectives:

1. Understand that anger may be a strategy used to preserve a client’s need for control when a situation arises that causes fear of loss of control.
2. Discuss the importance of establishing rapport and the setting of limits with this client population.
3. Describe empirically proven strategies helpful in treating this angry and aggressive population.
4. Understand why punitive attempts to control the client’s anger fail and what you can do to change negative outcomes.

Partners In Recovery: A New Direction The Effective Use Of Peers And Addictions Counselors In Helping Clients Recover

Mark Sanders, LCSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

New roles are emerging in the addictions recovery field, ranging from peer mentor, recovery coach, and recovery support specialist. In this workshop participants will be introduced to the similarities and differences between the recovery support specialist and addictions counselor and how both can partner in facilitating addictions recovery. A partial list of topics includes: The Unique Roles of Recovery Support Specialists/Peers and Addictions Counselors in Facilitating Recovery; Strategies for Creating a Working Alliance between Addictions Counselors and Recovery Support Specialists; Pre-treatment, In-treatment, and Post-treatment Engagement and the Role of Peers and Addictions Counselors; and Strategies for Incorporating Recovery Support Specialists as an Important part of the Multi-disciplinary Team.

Objectives:

1. Be aware of the unique roles of recovery support specialists and addictions counselors in facilitating recovery.
2. Be aware of strategies for creating a working alliance between a and recovery support specialists.
3. Be aware of strategies for incorporating recovery support specialists as an important part of the multi-disciplinary team.
Walking the Tight Rope of Pain Management and Addiction: Using the Addiction-Free Pain Management® System

Stephen F. Grinstead, Dr. AD, LMFT, ACRPS, CADC-II
1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

Healthcare and treatment providers are on the front line to accurately assess, intervene upon and develop appropriate treatment plans for the chemically impaired patient with a chronic pain condition. This can become more difficult when prescription drug abuse/addiction are present often because of a mismanaged chronic pain condition that may be either under treated or over treated or even misdiagnosed. Using a conservative 10% estimate, research shows that over 10 million chronic pain sufferers experience substance use disorders as a result of their using potentially addictive medications for treating chronic pain. Therefore, a major focus of this workshop will center on identification and effective intervention and treatment of prescription drug abuse for chronic pain patients. This will be accomplished in part by discussing how to identify the most common red flags of prescription drug abuse, and the denial patterns patients use to avoid recognizing and/or dealing with their prescription drug abuse and/or addiction, as well as becoming familiar with common pain management drugs of abuse.

Since chronic pain includes both physiological and psychological pain symptoms, participants will also learn how to differentiate between the two types of symptoms; how effective implementation of a multidisciplinary and integrated pain management approach can increase positive treatment outcomes; and what components are necessary to treat the synergistic symptoms of pain and addiction. This specialized treatment plan includes medication management, emotional and/or psychological symptom management, and non-pharmacological pain management interventions. Positive treatment outcomes can be accomplished by managing pain and coexisting disorders utilizing the Addiction-Free Pain Management® synergistic multidisciplinary treatment system.

Objectives:
1. Identify at least twenty-five (25) Red Flags that indicate that clients are using their prescription medication problematically and learn simple interventions to address those problems.
2. Identify the twelve (12) denial patterns employed by clients who are using/abusing/addicted to prescription medication and receive resources to assist in management of that denial.
3. Understand and explain the unique needs and obstacles confronting patients and their families who are living with chronic pain conditions and other coexisting psychological disorders including addiction.
4. Understand the importance of using a multidisciplinary team approach with this challenging population in order to improve treatment compliance and success.

Psychoactive Medications: Risks, Benefits and Relationship to Substance Abuse

Demetra (Dee) Antimisiaris, PharmD, CGP, FASCP

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

Understanding pharmacological and physiological aspects of psychoactive medications can be valuable to the substance abuse professional. Medications have more effect on the psychological wellbeing of an individual than just the intended effect of the medication. This session will review elements of psychoactive pharmacology, and the various conditions or circumstances which can lead to unintended (and intended) psycho-coactivity of medications and substances.

Objectives:
1. Describe how psychoactive medications interact with the human nervous system to result in tolerance, and other neuroplastic conditions.
2. Name three medications ordinarily considered non-psychoactive which have psychoactive effects.
3. List physiological conditions which can result in increased psychoactive activity of any medication.
Helping LGBT Teens Navigate Adolescence

Janice Gabe, LCSW, MAC

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

This workshop will strive to present an authentic and honest account of childhood and adolescence from the perspective of LGBT teens. This presentation integrates the most up-to-date research as well as information gathered from interviews with LGBT teens to present risk factors for depression, suicide, and substance abuse among this population. Most importantly, interventions will be discussed to reduce risk factors and promote resiliency.

Objectives:
1. An understanding of the sense of isolation experienced by LGBT teens and the social, emotional, psycho-sexual and mental health consequences of this isolation.
2. Strategies to enhance attachments, decrease isolation, and increase resiliency and supports.
3. Interventions along the developmental continuum which will promote healthy coping and relationship skills.
4. Information gathered from interviews with LGBT teens about what they need from us to navigate their adolescents.
5. Strategies for treating transgender teens.

Substance Abuse and Criminality

Gwen Holder, MRC, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

This workshop will discuss a specific treatment approach for working with substance abusing offenders. What is different about treating offenders as opposed to the general public who have substance abuse issues? How do faulty/irresponsible/criminal thinking errors contribute and how to address these in the treatment setting? These issues will be discussed. And finally, what is necessary for the offender to make the necessary changes.

This presentation is appropriate for Substance Abuse, Prevention, Mental Health, and Criminal Justice professionals.

Objectives:
1. Identify games that offenders often use to avoid accountability.
2. Recognize thinking errors common to this population.
3. Identify what is necessary for real change to occur for an offender.
Re-licensure Ethics for Social Workers and Other Counselor Professions Including CADCs

Geoff Wilson, LCSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Tuesday

For those practicing in the drug and alcohol treatment field, the ability to maintain professional boundaries with clients and practice from a sound ethical foundation are essential. This program will serve to satisfy continuing education requirements for Social Workers, specific to 201 KAR 23:080, as well as for Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselors specific to 201 KAR 35: 030, Code of Ethics for Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselors. The agenda for this workshop will include a review of specific mission statements for various disciplines, core value and principles, ethical standards and responsibilities. The ethical decision making process, and issues pertaining to Dual Relationships will be reviewed along with specific case examples. Issues pertaining to counselor burnout, value clarification, boundaries, and responsibility to clients will also be explored.

(Please Note: If you are another Counselor profession, other than Social Work or CADC, we ask that you check with your occupational Board to find out if this workshop will meet your requirements. Thank you.)

Objectives:

1. Participants will review 201 KAR 23:080 regulation with regard to Social Work ethics, and 201 KAR 35:030 Code of Ethics for Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselors to gain a clear understanding of their content and practice implications.
2. Attendees will discuss what it means to practice ethically and will define who their clients are.
3. Attendees will review and discuss specific case examples that pertain to the Code of Ethics of a variety of disciplines.
4. Attendees will process common experiences that may lead to counselor burn-out and boundary violations.

Addiction 101: Understanding the Basics of Addiction and Recovery

Patrick McKiernan, Ph.D., CADC

2 Day Workshop • Tuesday, Wednesday

This workshop provides participants with a forum to assess, increase, grasp and develop an understanding of addiction and the process of recovery. The workshop is designed to assist participants in evaluating their own thoughts and beliefs about addiction. The instructor will also present and discuss working definitions for addiction and recovery, along with demonstrating techniques and strategies for identifying and decreasing denial. This course is based on the disease model of addiction and reinforces the 12-step recovery process.

Objectives:

1. Have the ability to engage and connect with clients
2. Learn the use and interpretation of an addiction progression chart
3. Be introduced to the technique of using the stages of recovery chart and theory
4. Be introduced to strategies for identifying and decreasing denial.

The Future of Prevention: New Directions

Fran Harding, Director CSAP, Center for Substance Abuse Prevention

1 Hour CEU Plenary

This session will present an overview of SAMHSA’s Strategic Initiative for the Prevention of Substance Abuse and Mental Illness, which focuses on building emotional health and preventing underage drinking, suicide, and prescription drug misuse and abuse. Furthermore, this session will include a focus on what Americans believe about addiction and mental illness, the linkage between substance abuse and mental illness, the impact of behavioral health on physical health, and prevention’s role in health reform.

Objectives

1. Participants will identify the magnitude and scope of behavioral health issues in America.
2. Participants will explain the impact of behavioral health on physical health.
3. Participants will discuss prevention’s role in health reform.

Fran Harding serves as Director of the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration’s (SAMHSA) Center for Substance Abuse Prevention (CSAP), and is recognized as one of the nation’s leading experts in the field of alcohol and drug policy. As part of an Executive Leadership Exchange within SAMHSA, Director Harding served as Director of SAMHSA’s Center for Mental Health Services (CMHS) from July 2010-January 2011. Director Harding serves as the lead for SAMHSA’s Strategic Initiative on the Prevention of Substance Abuse and Mental Illness. Prior to federal service, Director Harding served as Associate Commissioner of the Division of Prevention and Recovery at the New York State Office of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Services. Director Harding has held numerous national positions and received recognition from her peers for her work, including serving as president of the National Prevention Network, and as New York State’s representative to the Board of Directors for the National Association of State Alcohol and Drug Abuse Directors, Inc. In 2004, she became the first non-researcher to receive the prestigious Science to Practice Award from the International Society for Prevention Research.

Helping Women Recover
Ronsonlyn Clark, Ph.D., NCC, MAC, CADC, CCGC

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday
Content: Gender specific treatment for women and their issues is important for women’s recovery. Women bring unique biological, psychological and social needs into any treatment setting. It is incumbent for any treatment provider to be aware of these needs and address them in the treatment setting. Women, as we know, focus heavily on relationships and these can often be the major pitfalls for them in recovery. The class will also address use of evidence based best practices in women’s recovery.

Objectives:
1. Participants will learn sets of unique differences women bring to treatment
2. Participants will learn specific relapse triggers for women in recovery
3. Participants will learn to value the role of gender specific treatment
4. Participants will become familiar with evidence based best practices in the treatment of women

Relapse Prevention: An Overview (CENAPS)
Stephen F. Grinstead, Dr. AD, LMFT, ACRPS, CADC-II

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday
This workshop is designed to teach the participants to assist their clients to understand the progressive nature of relapse. Participants will learn that relapse is a process not and event and that there are many identifiable warning signs that occur far in advance of alcohol and other drug use. Special attention will be focused on how to successfully identify and intervene upon the relapse process by identifying warning signs and high risk situations the come well before someone starts drinking or using other drugs. Participants will learn valuable tools that will enable their clients to take the mystery out of relapse and develop a strategic relapse prevention plan. This presentation utilizes a combination of lecture, demonstration and experiential exercises followed by group discussions.

Objectives:
1. Assist their clients to identify and manage relapse warning signs and high risk situations—and teaching clients that not recognizing and dealing with those two indicators of potential danger can lead to relapse.
2. Learn how to assist their clients in developing and personalizing simple high risk situation and warning signs.
3. Understand how the symptoms of Post-Acute Withdrawal (PAW) is a major cause of relapse in the first year of recovery.
4. Identify the six common symptoms of PAW and how to teach their clients how to develop an effective PAW management plan.
Beyond Recovery- Focus On Employment

Carmella Yates, Ph.D.

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday

Employment is an integral component of a recovery oriented system of care. This workshop will explore the benefits of employment in recovery and how to address many of the barriers to employment that our clients bring to us. Means to prepare clients for reentry into the workforce will be discussed. Engaging community employers is essential to finding work for those in early recovery. A number of methods that can be used to encourage employers to hire individuals in early recovery will be addressed.

Objectives:

1. Gain knowledge of the importance of work in addictions recovery.
2. Understand the barriers to employment for individuals in early recovery and protections afforded by law.
3. Be able to implement several methods to encourage community employers to hire persons in recovery.

Evidence Based Practices for Youth: What Works in Prevention

Deborah Wolfe, MA, CPS

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday

Research tells us that the most effective substance abuse prevention interventions are those that incorporate both individual and environmental interventions. The individual interventions are designed to help individuals develop the intentions and skills to act in a healthy manner and the environmental are designed to focus on creating an environment that supports healthy behavior. Participants in this workshop will understand how evidence-based prevention practices are selected in prevention using the Strategic Prevention Framework and Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration’s (SAMHSA) Six Strategies.

Objectives

1. Participants will gain a basic understanding of SAMHSA’s Strategic Prevention Framework (SPF).
2. Participants will become familiar with CSAP’s six evidence based prevention strategies.
3. Participants will use the SPF and CSAP strategies to identify evidence based practices for youth.
Getting to Know the 12 Steps and 12 Step Fellowships

Gerry Boylan, Ph.D., CADC

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday

This workshop is designed to increase the participants knowledge base and understanding of the 12 Steps. An introduction to the structure and origin of 12 step fellowships along with a review of the 12 steps individually will be given and the spiritual principles underlying the 12 steps will be independently examined and examples of their application will be presented. A comparison of treatment and 12 Step fellowships will be made with techniques for linking the two processes explored. This workshop will explore the steps and their practical application both in treatment and afterwards. Essentially the 12 Steps are a spiritual path, and the wisdom embodied there can be used successfully by anyone seeking growth and freedom. The workshop will explore how the steps support that spiritual path and how treatment can help it develop. The exploration will be both didactic and experiential.

Objectives:
1. Increase ability to explain and present the 12 steps to clients and staff.
2. Be able to match client with, and make more accurate referral to 12 Step Fellowships.
3. Be able to present and discuss the differences between 12 step fellowships and treatment programs.
4. Be able to align the steps with therapeutic elements of treatment.

Engaging Families in Treatment

Geoff Wilson, LMFT, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday

This workshop will provide attendees with an in-depth review of substance abuse and the role the client’s family plays in their treatment. The assessment process with families and the impact assessment has on recommendations for treatment will be explored. Therapist techniques that utilize a Systems Oriented vs. Individual approach will be highlighted. Specific techniques to engage clients and families in treatment and current models of evidence-based family treatment will also be reviewed.

Objectives:
1. Gain insight into the role family members play in the treatment process.
2. Utilize skills to effectively assess families.
3. Identify motivation techniques to engage families in the intervention and treatment process.
4. Describe techniques to work more effectively with family members that can become disruptive to treatment.
5. Describe current evidence-based family treatment for adolescents and adults.
6. Utilize techniques to work effectively with families in individual and group treatment settings.
Re-entry from Corrections System to Community
Brigid Adams, MBA, BA

1 Day Workshop • Wednesday

More than 99% of state inmates will be released back into our communities at some point. Four in 10 offenders return to a state prison within three years in 40 states in our nation. Kentucky has taken steps to lower their recidivism rate, implementing a variety of reentry strategies across the state. This workshop will discuss the work conducted in prisons and the community to provide additional support to offenders as they transition back to the home communities.

Objectives
1. Participants will be able to list the 8 criminogenic needs of returning offenders.
2. Participants will be able to discuss the role of the Level of Service / Case Management Inventory in the reentry process.
3. Participants will be able to define the case management plan process and how to become engaged in the plan as a treatment provider.
4. Participants will be able to detail services for their community related to reentry and where to find additional supports.
5. Participants will be able to discuss the role of reentry staff in the offenders transition to the community.
6. Participants will be able to list common barriers to successful reentry.

Modified Interpersonal Group Psychotherapy
Jeff Georgi, M.Div., LSAS, LPC, CCS, CGP

2 Day Workshop • Wednesday and Thursday

This course is designed for clinicians who have some group experience or have had either informal or formal group therapy training. Utilizing a modified interpersonal group model, this workshop will not only provide an experiential base for the advancement of group skills, but will also detail techniques and interventions specific to the alcohol and other drug abusing client population. Emphasizing the intermediate nature of this course, active student participation is important and individual participants are encouraged to bring case histories and/or their own group work for discussion and review. A brief review of the bio-psycho-social-spiritual experiential definition of addictive disease will give further focus to the workshop and will involve a discussion of the advances the interplay of brain research and psychodynamics as further supports for group process.

Objectives:
1. Be able to recognize how the bio-psycho-social-spiritual components of addictive disease can be addressed in a multi-faceted approach when modified interactive group psychotherapy is used in an appropriate way.
2. Become familiar with the different levels of group interaction: intrapsychic, interpersonal, structural and group as a whole.
3. Identify specific skills that can be utilized across different forms of group psychotherapy setting which both help the therapist identify the process in the group and make interventions within that process.
Treating Trauma Across the Life Span: From Early Life Developmental Trauma to the Experience of War—A Science Based Perspective

Cardwell C. Nuckols, Ph.D.

2 Day Workshop • Wednesday and Thursday

Take a look at the population you treat. No matter whether it is a criminal justice, alcohol and drug or psychiatric population, the recidivists will have a high incidence of early life trauma. Now add to this number, those returning from war with PTSD and/or moral injury. Some of these veterans have histories of earlier trauma. From this perspective, expertise in treating trauma-related problems is critical to the well-being of so many of those you serve. This skills training event will focus on the treatment of early life developmental trauma and, when evident, the occurrence of later life traumatic experiences such as survival in a war zone. Emphasis will be placed on the understanding of current research from such disciplines as neurobiology, developmental psychology, and neuropsychology. Neuroplasticians (those in attendance) can expect to hear what the research tells us about this population and how this evidence can be used to help. Stabilization strategies and trauma resolution strategies such as behavioral exposure and the use of attachment narratives will be offered.

Practical treatment techniques translated from the research will give participants hands-on skills that can be used to better client understanding and clinical outcomes. The emerging issue of moral injury (no hyperarousal but avoidance and intrusive symptoms) will be developed as will a treatment protocol. There is concern using behavioral exposure and the use of attachment narratives will cause further injury to those suffering from moral injury.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Describe empirically validated ways of treating early life trauma during early recovery from addiction.
2. Discuss the new research on the longitudinal well-being of young recruits before, during and after exposure to war.
3. Discuss the physiological, self and identity and altered consciousness symptoms associated with complex PTSD.
4. Describe a treatment protocol for treating complex PTSD occurring with a Substance Use Disorder.
5. Describe a protocol for treating guilt and shame associated with moral injury.
6. Discuss treatment strategies useful in the stabilization of the client including contracting, grounding, setting limits and working with self-injurious behavior.
7. Describe the neurobiology of the fear response and how therapy works via extinction to override this response.

Social Inequality and Behavioral Health Problems: How Social Rank Affects Disorders and Treatment

Robert Walker, MSW, LCSW

2 Day Workshop • Wednesday and Thursday

This two-day workshop will involve looking at deeper effects of social inequality on behavioral health problems including substance use disorders. The content includes information from international and other studies showing the relationship between low social rank and behavioral health disorder. This is not just poverty versus wealth but a complex linear relationship between one’s social rank and degree of well being. We will explore how social rank is processed in the human brain in the form of stress effects and how these effects interact with addiction and mental illness. Information on the neurophysiology of these forms of stress and how they are related to disease and disorder conditions will be explored. Lastly, we will examine how the ways in which the treatment and recovery services help or worsen stress conditions. This will involve discussion of more humanized, less prescriptive ways of relating to clients. The workshop will move from largely didactic information on the first day to a group discussion on the second day. Case examples are encouraged for this discussion.

Objectives:

1. Understand the relationship of macro-scale social arrangements to behavioral health and wellbeing.
2. Gain increased sensitivity to clients’ social status when participating in services.
3. Begin to recognize the critical importance of person-to-person relating during recovery versus automatic application of evidence-based practices.
4. Be more aware of the unintended effects of agency practices on clients – negative and positive.
How To Be a More Effective Supervisor

Col. (Ret.) Mark Scureman, BS, MBA, M.Ed.

2 Day Workshop • Wednesday and Thursday

Studies show most people do not quit their job, they quit their supervisor. This seminar tells you how to prevent this. It tells you what makes effective supervisors effective. It describes the difference between being a manager and a leader and why both are important. It introduces you to 67 competencies supervisors should possess and explains the six killer competencies (competencies required at every level of leadership that few people possess). You will learn what really motivates employees so when they wake up, they can’t wait to get to work and do their job. You will learn how to get everyone aligned to the same goal.

Objectives:

1. Understand the fifteen differences between a manager and a leader.
2. Learn how to build a culture based on mutual trust and respect.
3. Learn how to listen like a leader.

“Co-mingling” Disorders and the Role of the Peer Support Specialist

Jeffrey M. Georgi, M.Div., M.A.H, CCAS, LPC, CGP

1 Hour CEU Plenary

As the field of substance abuse treatment has matured we are encountering patients with ever increasing degrees of complexity. Once referenced as the “dually diagnosed” patients often present with histories of other psychiatric disorders, significant medical illness, and profound psychosocial liabilities in addition to their addictive disease. These “co-mingling” challenges in the lives of the individuals we treat cannot be separated and parsed out to other professionals without the danger segmenting treatment and losing the integrated approach that research has indicated is necessary. In an effort to reduce treatment cost, while at the same time creating recovery oriented systems of care, the increasing role of the peer support specialist is often offered as a solution. This lecture will define the nature of “co-mingling” disorders and outline some of the clinical challenges represented in this patient population. In addition, the importance of utilizing the peer support specialists, while providing them with the necessary clinical supervision to avoid some of the pitfalls associated with transference and countertransference will be reviewed.

Objectives:
1. Participants will be able to define “co-mingling” disorders in the lives of the substance abusing patient population.
2. Participants will review the important role of the peer support specialist in substance abuse treatment.
3. Participants will be able to discuss the necessity of clinical supervision for the peer support specialist particularly when dealing with complex cases.

Jeffrey M. Georgi, M.Div., M.A.H, CCAS, LPC, CGP from Duke University Medical Center has served as the clinical director of the Duke Addictions Program and Intervention Program. He received his BA from Duke University and his M.Div. in Pastoral Psychology from the Duke Divinity School and The Philadelphia Divinity School. Jeff completed an Internship and Residency program in Pastoral Counseling at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Medical Center and a Masters in Allied Health at Duke University. He is a licensed Clinical Addiction Specialist, a Certified Clinical Supervisor, a Licensed Professional Counselor and a Certified Group Psychotherapist by the American Association of Group Psychotherapy. During his two plus decades at the Medical Center Jeff held clinical appointments in the Departments of Surgery, Obstetrics, and Psychiatry. He remains a clinical associate in the Department of Behavioral Medicine as well as a faculty member of the Duke University School of Nursing.

He has contributed to a number of Treatment Improvement Protocols which are seen as the best practice guidelines by the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment, Washington D.C.

Although primarily known for his work in field of addictions with adolescents, adults, and families Jeff is also a national trainer and respected author in the areas of The Spiritual Platform™ a form of clinical spirituality, ethics, and the clinical application of our understanding of the adolescent brain, its development and vulnerability.

Marijuana Misuse, Medicine and Legalization – Helping Communities and Clients Sail the Rhetorical Seas

Allan Barger, MSW

1 Day Workshop • Thursday

Have you ever had a client tell you marijuana is good medicine, a beneficial herb and that people are being thrown into jail by a draconian government out to get them? Are people in your communities persuaded that marijuana is relatively safe and should be legalized, taxed and made widely available? These ideas and attitudes impact both prevention efforts and our clients in treatment. This session explores current policy initiatives around medical cannabis, marijuana legalization, and government enforcement. It relates how we help communities and individual clients better understand the issues, explore their attitudes and beliefs before choosing what is in their own best interests. (There are images of marijuana used in this presentation that might create craving in those who are dependent.)

Objectives:

1. Learn the information and beliefs expressed on the Internet, in communities and by clients that hamper both prevention and treatment efforts.
2. Explore 4 risks of marijuana use supported in research;
3. Explore the accuracy of 3 arguments people are given for marijuana legalization;
4. Develop responses that help communities and clients move beyond the rhetoric of their own beliefs and defenses.

Clinical Challenges: Medically Assisted Treatment and the Opioid Addicted Patient

Mark B. Miller, MA,MS,LMFT, LSOCC, CSAYC

1 Day Workshop • Thursday

Medically Assisted Treatment has been around for over a half a century in the form of methadone and, more recently, Suboxone, for opioid-addicted patients. This seminar will focus on medically assisted treatment from a clinical perspective, highlighting both challenges and goals for working with patients in MAT. How do MAT programs work with co-occurring disorders? Patients with pain management? Addicted patients who use addictive substances while in treatment? How have recent changes in legislation impacted the patients that we work with? What are the typical opioids that patients are using prior to treatment? Looking beyond the old standbys of “exchanging one drug for another” and “legal dope dealers”, how do MAT programs benefit their patients and what does this mean for you? Come be a part of an exciting dialogue about this still-cutting edge treatment modality! The objectives of the training are to understand what medically assisted treatment is, learn the differences between Suboxone and methadone treatment, and to establish and address the challenges to treatment including pain management, co-occurring disorders, etc.

Objectives:

1. Understand what MAT is
2. Learn the differences between Suboxone and Methadone
3. Establish and address particular challenges of this population: pain management, co-occurring disorders, community investment
How to Care for our Soldiers, Veterans and Their Families: Understanding the Challenges and Effective Treatment
Barbara B. Kaminer, MSSW, LCSW
Sonny M. Hatfield, MSW, LCSW

1 Day Workshop • Thursday
Serving in the military is a way of life for the warrior and family. The military is a rich and distinct culture, made up of shared history, values, symbols, and perspectives. Membership in this culture may be one of the most powerful and enduring determinants of a person’s values, beliefs, expectations, and behaviors. While being part of a shared culture, individual experiences will vary tremendously depending upon branch of service, time and place served and occupation.

It is vital that you send the message to your client that you recognize the importance of their military background and have taken the time to better understand military culture.

Almost all service members will have reactions after returning from deployment. These behaviors and feelings are normal, especially during the first weeks at home. Despite the challenges of reintegration, most service members will successfully readjust with few problems. However, many will need assistance and seeking solutions to problems should be viewed as a sign of strength. Health care providers need to be prepared to accept these warriors as they are and be armed with the necessary understanding of how to engage and establish trust.

Workshop will use the Community Provider Toolkit developed by the VA and a panel of Veterans and family members who will share their experiences of what has been beneficial in their mental health services.

Objectives:
1. Increase their understanding of military culture.
2. Improve their ability to engage with active duty and Veteran population.
3. Broaden their resources for providing services to that population.

Mindfulness: Meditation for Self Care and Client Treatment: An Evidence Based Practice
Frank Snyder, Ph.D., LCSW, MSW

1 Day Workshop • Thursday
Mindfulness has been described as non-judgmental moment-to-moment awareness. The use of mindfulness in the clinical settings is a rapid growing area of study and practice in the mental health and recovery fields in recent years. The number of research articles, books and popular press articles on the topic is growing exponentially each year for these evidenced based interventions. Its first application working with pain and stress was developed by Jon Khabot-Zinn at the University of Massachusetts and called Mindful Based Stress Reduction (MBSR). Since then other approaches focused on different populations have been introduced: Mindfulness-based cognitive therapy (MBCT), Acceptance and commitment therapy (ACT), Dialectical behavior therapy (DBT), Mindful Based Relapse Prevention (MBRP) and others.

This workshop will be an introduction to mindfulness and its applications. This will be a learn by doing workshop as the way to learn mindfulness is to do mindfulness. The participant will be learning how to attend to the mind and body using the practice of mindfulness. The experiential exercises will be evenly supported with didactic presentations. In the didactic sessions we will explore evidence base for these interventions, the psychobiological changes which occur and where mindfulness practices fit in relapse prevention. So bring a yoga mat and meditation cushion or bench if you have one and if not come still, not required at all; wear comfortable clothing and come to experience and learn.

Objectives:
1. Understand the central role of mindfulness meditation practice in facilitating self-regulation of emotions mood and the relapse process.
2. Articulate the vital importance of the therapist’s ongoing mindfulness meditation practice and sustained mindful awareness within a psychotherapy framework.
3. Develop and/or deepen their own mindfulness meditation practice, emphasizing both formal meditative practices and mindfulness as a mode of being in daily life.
Cognitive Therapy and Addictions

Todd Reynolds, MSSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Thursday

Cognitive Therapy is a proven, evidence based practice in working with addictions. This workshop will focus on effective strategies and skills that comprise utilizing cognitive therapy in working with addictions. Cognitive therapy is sometimes called cognitive behavior therapy because the goal is to help people in the ways they think (the cognitive) and in the ways they act (the behavior). It is based on the concept that the way we think about things affects how we feel emotionally and what we do. Cognitive therapy focuses on present thinking, behavior, and communication rather than on past experiences and is oriented toward problem solving.

Many people with addictions also have issues of trauma; some of these are from childhood, families of origin, or the madness of active addiction. There will be an additional focus on utilizing cognitive therapy in helping trauma survivors.

Objectives

1. Be able to define cognitive therapy.
2. Become familiar with the use of cognitive therapy in treating people with addictions and trauma.
3. Identify the roles of a person’s thoughts, feelings and behavior in treating addictions and trauma.
4. Learn cognitive therapy skills to utilize with patients with addictions and trauma.

Internet Technologies that Support Treatment and Recovery

Patrick McKiernan, Ph.D., CADC

1 Day Workshop • Thursday

Web based technologies offer great opportunities to reach, maintain contact, and support addiction recovery. Increased access to computer and smart phones makes web based technologies available to a growing number of individuals in recovery. This session will present information on a variety of applications that can enhance recovery, increase treatment interventions, as well as support and evaluate treatment response. As we approach the full implementation of the affordable health care act these types of application will prove beneficial to many providers of treatment and recovery programs.

Objectives:

1. Increase knowledge of web based technologies that support treatment/recovery.
2. Explore and review the various technologies currently available.
3. Increase awareness of how professionals can utilize technologies as an adjunct to treatment.
4. Recognize how the use of technologies can improve and track outcomes.
Intervention and Treatment Strategies for Resistant Clients with Mental Health and Substance Abuse Disorders

Geoff Wilson, LCSW, CADC

1 Day Workshop • Thursday

Many practitioners commonly have the experience of completing an initial assessment and determining their client is suffering from co-morbid conditions. Recent surveys have found that six out of ten people with a substance use disorder also suffer from another form of mental illness. In addition, many of these clients will present as resistant to change for a variety of reasons. This workshop will provide attendees with an overview of what resistance is in the helping relationship and specific ways to address resistance with clients who present with co-occurring disorders. The treatment field's response to addressing these issues will be explored along with specific strategies to enhance the therapeutic alliance between counselors and their clients.

Objectives:

1. Will identify what resistance is in the therapeutic process and specific signs of resistance.
2. Will review the core principles for treating clients with co-occurring disorders, including consensus based and evidence-based practices for mental health and substance abuse treatment.
3. Will identify specific strategies to enhance client engagement in the treatment process.
4. Will process how specific diagnoses can influence resistance and the importance of utilizing consultation and the referral process to decrease resistance and improve outcomes.
