SUICIDE PREVENTION PROGRAMS AND INITIATIVES

- The Suicide Prevention Consortium of Kentucky (SPCK) brings together individuals and organizations dedicated to reducing the impact of suicide and suicide attempts in the Commonwealth. SPCK is open to the public and is currently supported by a State Suicide Prevention Coordinator within the Department of Behavioral Health, Developmental and Intellectual Disabilities (DBHDID) of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services.

- DBHDID provides consultation and resources related to education and awareness materials and training for secondary schools as per legislated requirement; implements evidence-based suicide prevention training for providers serving youth; and increases public/private collaboration among youth-serving institutions and child serving agencies.

- The DBHDID received a Garret Lee Smith Grant in 2014 for the Kentucky Initiative for Zero Suicides (KIZS).

- As of spring 2013, the Kentucky Department for Behavioral Health, Developmental and Intellectual Disabilities released the state’s 2013-2018 Strategy for Suicide Prevention: http://www.sprc.org/sites/default/files/KENTUCKY%20STRATEGY%20FOR%20SUICIDE%20PREVENTION%202013%20to%202018.pdf.

- Kentucky law (KRS § 158.070) requires that school personnel receive four days of professional development training along with two hours of suicide prevention training each year. This training may be completed through a self-review of appropriate suicide prevention materials.

- Kentucky is now the second state in the U.S. (the first was Washington State) to require suicide prevention training for mental health and other professionals, beginning 1/1/2015 (SB 72, adopted 3/19/13).
